The aforementioned phone number was determined to belong to [redacted] based off several law enforcement database checks. Additionally, it was determined via [redacted]'s assigned phone number, her Cashapp account was identified as [redacted].

Law enforcement database checks revealed [redacted] was last known to be living at [redacted] Daytona Beach.

Law Enforcement then responded to [redacted] Daytona Beach, in attempt to make contact with [redacted]. Upon contact, Detective Howard and Detective Sergeant Elmazi spoke with [redacted], which was captured on Deputy Griswold's BWC. [redacted] was emotionally upset and began crying when she initially began speaking with law enforcement and stated she already knew why law enforcement was there. Detective Howard presented [redacted] with a physical photo of the suspected threat, and she advised her mother already called her about it and she took the post down from her social media account. [redacted] advised it was obviously a joke; she doesn't own a Glock and doesn't like guns. She further advised she does not like President Trump, but she was not going to shoot anyone. Detective Sergeant Elmazi then read [redacted] her constitutional rights via agency issued advice of rights card. [redacted] advised she spoke with her mom and took the post down. She was told she could get arrested for her post. She then advised her residence has Spectrum internet (Charter Communications) and her cellphone number was [redacted], which is assigned to an iPhone. She also advised she has had the suspected Instagram account for a long time.

All parties who live at the residence gave law enforcement permission to search the residence for firearms, which yielded no firearms or weapons discovered. During the search of the residence [redacted]'s iPhone was collected from her bedroom and identified by [redacted]

[redacted] was taken into custody and transported to the Volusia County Branch Jail by Deputy Griswold.

Deputy Griswold petitioned for a temporary risk protection order.
